PREFACE

This document describes the policy and procedures for all teachers employed at Sydney Distance Education High School, in three important areas which reflects the NESA Teacher Accreditation/ Policies and procedures as set out in the NSW Teacher Accreditation Manual 2022.

1. Performance and Development

- Achieving and maintaining professional standing with the NSW Educational Standards Authority (NESA), through performance and development processes. These include the annual formulation and completion of a Performance and Development Plan (PDP) based on demonstration of the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers (the Standards), as well as required ongoing professional learning and development.

2. Induction and Support

- A program to support teachers new to the school and to the profession.

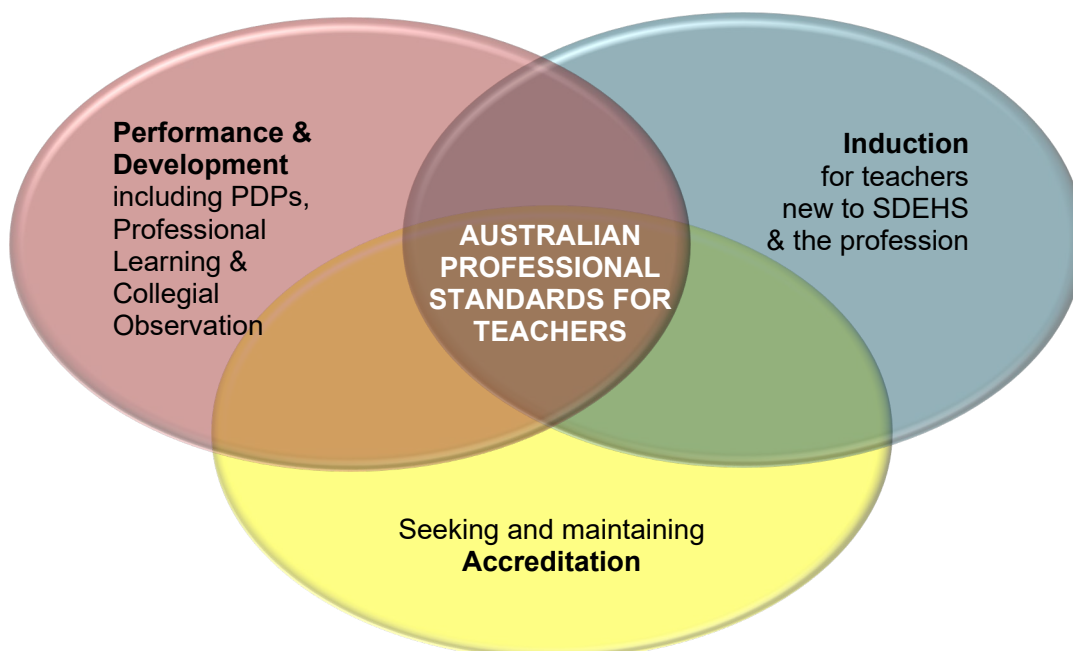

3. Accreditation

- Seeking and maintaining accreditation with NESA at the mandatory Proficient Teacher level, and at Highly Accomplished and Lead Teacher levels for those teachers voluntarily wishing to pursue a higher career level.

All three areas are underpinned by the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers (the Standards). These apply Australia wide, and describe the key elements of quality teaching which improve educational outcomes for students. They articulate what teachers are expected to know and be able to do at each of the four career stages:

- Graduate Teacher
- Proficient Teacher – mandatory for all NSW government school teachers
- Highly Accomplished Teacher
- Lead Teacher

In NSW, achievement of accreditation at the mandatory level of Proficient Teacher requires demonstration that the teacher meets the standards at that level (Appendix 1).

PART 1: PERFORMANCE & DEVELOPMENT – TEACHER

1.1 Department requirements

Effective teacher performance and development requires a collaborative and supportive workplace committed to a positive culture of ongoing learning by individuals and teams. To support this culture of performance, development, and ongoing evaluation all teachers employed in NSW government schools develop a Performance and Development Plan (PDP). The Performance and Development Framework is referenced in the Terms of Settlement (27 November 2013) for the Salaries and Conditions Award 2014–2016 for teachers in NSW government schools.

Performance and development processes apply to permanent, temporary and casual teachers as well as executives and principals employed in NSW public schools. These processes also apply to specialist teachers such as school counsellors.

1.2 Performance and Development Framework

All teachers are introduced to the Performance and Development Framework before developing a Performance and Development Plan.

New teachers to the school, or teachers who have not participated in this introduction, collect a package of materials from the front office which includes the accompanying professional learning materials:

- Australian Professional Standards for Teachers
- Performance and Development School Teachers
- Performance and Development Framework for Principals, Executives and Teachers in NSW Public Schools

When teachers have viewed and read the professional learning materials, they complete and sign the Performance and Development Plan Declaration (Appendix 3) and have it signed by their supervisor. Teachers return the Declaration to the front office within three weeks of starting work at the school so their name can be recorded on the school's Performance and Development Plan Register. All documentation and professional readings are also available through the Performance and Development link on the school intranet.

1.3 Performance and Development Plan

The performance and development process involves three distinct phases:

- Plan
- Implement
- Review

The phases encompass the various activities teachers, executives and principals are already undertaking in the normal course of their work.

The Performance and Development (PD) Framework for Principals, Executives and Teachers in NSW Public Schools explains how to implement the Performance and Development process.

Performance and Development Plans are completed using the Performance and Development Plan (PDP) template. This is based on the Department's PDP template. Teachers, executive and senior executive teachers complete their plans in consultation with their Head Teacher or supervisor.

1.3.1 Temporary and casual teachers

Every casual teacher who teaches on a regular basis will be expected to develop a PDP. Casual teachers working on a regular basis will be considered to be those working on average one day per week or more on a regular basis and no less than 42 days across the school year (for example, 42 days in the school year, across 12 fortnightly pay periods and average 3.5 days per fortnight). See Appendix 10: Fact Sheet: Performance and Development Framework – Regular Casual Teachers

The overarching guiding principles are that the regularity of casual work allows for a meaningful performance and development process to be undertaken and that there is sufficient relationship in existence with a predominant school to enable such a process. This means that schools will be required to identify and anticipate those casual teachers they are likely to engage on a regular basis.

For those teachers who are working on a regular basis the teacher will be given access to a supervisor with whom they can work within the predominant school to which they are attached. The teacher and the supervisor will collaborate on the development of goals and activities associated with the PDP, and will have professional discussions about the teacher's performance and classroom observation of teaching practice as per the Framework.

Teachers working intermittently or infrequently (ie not deemed to be a regular casual) will not be required to complete a PDP. It is important that teachers who are required to be accredited are aware of the mandatory accreditation requirements.

If a PDP is being completed in another NSW government school, the SDEHS Performance and Development Plan Declaration (Appendix 3) must be completed to this effect.

1.3.2 Teachers new to the school

The Teacher Entry on Duty Process at SDEHS (Appendix 2) requires that teachers new to the school complete a range of training, including mandatory training for anaphylaxis, emergency care and the annual child protection updates, before they start teaching. In addition, teachers new to the school who have not completed the performance and development professional learning requirements need to collect, from the front office, a Performance and Development Professional Learning Package. When the performance and development training is completed, the teacher signs the Performance and Development Plan Declaration (Appendix 3) and has it signed by their supervisor before returning it to the front office. If completing a PDP at another NSW government school, the teacher declares this by signing the relevant section of the Declaration. Both the performance and development training and the signing of the Declaration must occur within 3 weeks of the teacher starting work at SDEHS.

1.3.3 Annual timeline

PLAN – Term 1 – developing a PDP

Most PDPs will have been developed and signed off at the Term 4 annual review meeting the previous year. For teachers new to the school or returning from leave, PDPs should be developed during the first two weeks they are employed at the school and finalised by the end of Week 3. The PDPs are given to Deputy Principals by the end of Week 4, and to the Principal by the end of Week 6. They are then copied, recorded, and returned to teachers and supervisors.

IMPLEMENT – Terms 2 and 3 – implementation at the school and self-assessment

Teachers implement their PDPs, record adjustments made to the PDP and complete the Review: Self-Assessment, which is signed by teachers and supervisors by the end of Week 8 Term 2.

In addition, all teachers complete the Teaching Requests form (including faculty roles) (Appendix 4) for the following year by the end of Week 6 Term 3. This process is part of the school's Teaching Allocation Policy and Procedures.

REVIEW – Term 4 – Annual review

Teachers complete the Annual Review of their PDP by the end of Week 6 Term 3. Signed by teachers and supervisors, the documents are given to Deputy Principals and then to the Principal by the end of Week 7. Completed PDPs are copied and recorded and originals returned to teachers and supervisors.

Teachers who teach in more than one faculty have a single annual review meeting. This can be with one Head Teacher as negotiated, or with all relevant Head Teachers.

Teachers also bring their proposed PDP for the following year to the meeting. The PDP is discussed and signed by the teacher and supervisor, or if refinements are needed another meeting is arranged before the end of Week 8 so that the PDP can be signed and given to Deputy Principals and then to the Principal by the end of Week 8.

Performance Development Plan Timeline Summary
Term 1	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Where a teacher did not develop a PDP in Term 4 of the previous year (staff on leave or new staff), PDP is developed by the end of Week 2. Teachers give to supervisors by the end of Week 3. Supervisors give to Deputy Principals by the end of Week 4. Deputy Principals give to Principal by end of Week 6.
Term 2	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Teacher implements PDP, records adjustments. Teacher continues to implement PDP, completes self-assessment and signs off by the end of Week 8.
Term 3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Teacher submits Teaching Requests, including faculty roles for the following year to Head Teacher by the end of Week 6.
Term 4	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Teacher completes annual review and develops PDP for following year Teacher meets with supervisors by the end of Week 6 and, if refinement required, meets again before the end of Week 8.

1.4 Collegial Observations

The direct observation of classroom practice is an essential element of the Australian Teacher Performance and Development Framework. Observations should be negotiated and linked to the teacher's goals and the appropriate standards.

Observations are negotiated in a collegial, respectful and supportive manner, undertaken by a chosen colleague and documented.

Documented observations of the leadership practices of executives and principals are also conducted. In the case of executives and principals with teaching responsibilities, the colleague will undertake and document a mix of observations of both teaching and leadership practices, as agreed with the supervisor by the executive or Principal.

1.4.1 Sydney Distance Education High School Collegial Observation Policy

The Sydney Distance Education High School Collegial Observation Policy (Appendix 5) outlines agreed protocols in planning, conducting and providing collegial feedback including classroom observations. It is important that all teachers read the policy before planning, participating in or providing feedback for collegial observation.

At SDEHS, each teacher will have at least two documented observations each year. Teachers may request an additional observation if they wish.

Observations for a classroom teacher include:

- Two observations by supervisor and/or peers of your choice.
 - One observation should be workplace practice or classroom observation eg web lesson, phone lesson, study day, field service visit, elearning forum, email backwards and forwards. That is, it should involve some form of real-time connection.
 - The second observation may be the same as above, or may be a faculty, team or staff meeting where the teacher is presenting or teaching something to peers eg where the teacher's instructional capacity is being observed.
- A request in advance from the teacher to a supervisor or peer that they observe them.

Observations for an executive teacher, senior executive teacher and staff not in classrooms include a total of two observations that may include:

- One observation by supervisor and one peer observation, or two observations by supervisor.
- Two classroom observations or two presentations such as addressing staff or faculty meetings.
- A request from the executive teacher, senior executive teacher or staff not in classrooms to the observer, in advance, that they wish to be observed.

1.4.2 Sydney Distance Education Teaching Observation Template

SDEHS has produced a template (Part 1: Appendix 6) to be used in collegial observations to provide feedback and reflection for the participants, as well as a formal record of the observation.

Teacher Entry on Duty Process

Mandatory training in anaphylaxis, emergency care and child protection annual updates is recorded on the school's DELTA database for all relevant staff. Evidence of the most recent group training eg School Development Day Programs with staff sign on sheets for the day, is attached to this register. Staff trained in other contexts provide relevant documentation eg elearning course certificates or a signed declaration that they have received training. This register does not include a record of teachers who have completed the Department elearning module for initial child protection training, Child Protection Awareness Training (CPAT) since this is required when making an application to teach. Staff who leave the school are not included in the register. This register is published at least annually and filed in the Principal's folder: Mandatory Training Records.

Part 1 Appendix 5: Collegial Observation Policy

Rationale

The Department's publication, Great Teaching Inspired Learning – A Blueprint for Action (2013) states:

Teachers should have the opportunity to learn through observing the practices of others. Schools and school authorities will consider establishing approaches to collaborative practice to enable teachers to engage in collaborative lesson preparation, observation and feedback (16.1).

Collegial observations are required by the Department's performance and development processes to provide evidence-based feedback which helps teachers improve their practice. Feedback is an integral part of the learning process and every teacher needs to be given timely, high quality and constructive feedback on a regular basis.

Through collegial observations teachers identify their teaching strengths and areas that can be developed further.

Planning an observation

There are three important steps to the observation process.

- 1. Pre observation conversation
Clarify the focus of the observation and meet with the observer to discuss the focus and the plan for the observation.
- 2. Observation
The observation itself, where the observer records evidence of the observed teacher's teaching practice.
- 3. Post observation discussion
The reflective conversation between the observed teacher and the observer following the observation.

... those teachers who are students of their own effects are the teachers who are most influential in raising students' achievement ... the excellent teacher must be vigilant to what is working and what is not working in the classroom.¹

One of the most important elements of collegial observations is the teacher self-reflection and evaluation which occurs, leading teachers to modify their practice to improve student engagement and learning.

¹ John Hattie: Visual Learning: A synthesis of over 800 Meta Analyses Relating to Achievement, Routledge 2009, p24

Collegial observation code of conduct

Observers should evaluate

- objectively, focusing on the practice, not the person
- only in line with the agreed focus area and timeframe
- in the context of requirements of Australian Professional Standards for Teachers
<https://www.aitsl.edu.au/teach/standards>
- in a professional manner, acting with integrity and sensitivity while respecting the privacy of all involved.

The observer should also keep discussions and observations confidential between the observer and the observed teacher and give the observed teacher all copies of any notes or paperwork at the post lesson debrief.

Observed teachers should

- be welcoming to the observer
- engage in a productive professional dialogue with the observer pre and post lesson
- reflect on the feedback received from the observer to improve teaching practice.

Implementation

In accordance with Department policy, every teacher is observed by a colleague at least twice a year. The details of these observations remain confidential between the participants. The observations are noted in the Performance and Development Plan (PDP) Review: Self-Assessment Comment section and the Annual Review Comment section.

PART 2: PERFORMANCE & DEVELOPMENT – NON TEACHING STAFF

2.1 Department requirements

The Department's Performance and development for non teaching staff in schools procedures states that the performance and development process for non teaching staff in schools supports our commitment of developing a skilled, engaged and professional workforce to ensure better outcomes for our students.

Non teaching staff in schools are valued members of the school and this process will enable them to have meaningful conversations about their performance & development.

Who does it apply to?

The performance and development process applies to all non teaching staff in schools, employed on a permanent basis or in a temporary role for longer than one school term (10 weeks or longer). This includes full-time and part-time staff in the following groups:

- General Assistants*
- School Administrative Managers*
- School Administrative Officers*
- Other non teaching staff in schools.*

The school principal will determine whether a Performance and Development Plan (PDP) is completed for any staff employed for less than one school term.

Benefits of performance and development

The implementation of a performance and development process gives all staff the opportunity to have regular conversations with their PDP supervisor about what is expected of them, receive feedback about the work they have done, be recognised for their contribution and achievements, participate in developmentally focused activities and receive feedback on how work performance can be improved.

This process will:

- ensure non teaching staff members have clear goals and an understanding of what is expected of them.*
- align individual and team work goals with the school plan and priorities, and departmental objectives.*
- support a consistent process of overseeing and managing the work performance of all staff.*
- provide an opportunity to provide feedback that identifies and recognises staff capabilities and contributions to the school.*
- encourage, support and develop skills, knowledge and abilities of all non teaching staff.*
- provide options for identifying career development goals (optional) and the strategies to implement these goals.*
- encourage regular, meaningful conversations between supervisors and staff to support staff to be the best they can be.*

Responsibilities and delegations

The Department's FAQs Performance and development for non teaching staff states the roles likely to be the PDP supervisor for non teaching staff include:

GA	SAM	SAO
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Principal – Deputy Principal 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Principal – Deputy Principal 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – SAM

The Department's Performance and development for non teaching staff in schools procedures states that the performance and development is a shared responsibility between a staff member and their PDP supervisor.

Principal	Principals may delegate the responsibility for the implementation of the performance and development process to appropriate staff in the school. The principal must ensure that all PDP supervisors have the relevant skills and knowledge to undertake this role and provide support for them in the process. A principal's role is to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ensure staff are familiar with the performance and development process. • ensure staff have performance and development plans in place. • support staff to actively engage in the performance and development process. • report on the completion of PDP and reviews as required.
PDP Supervisor	The PDP supervisor is responsible for working collaboratively with non teaching staff members during the performance and development cycle. A PDP supervisor will generally be the day to day supervisor of the staff member. However, a PDP supervisor may be a different person to the one who supervises the day to day work of a staff member. In such situations, the PDP supervisor will work in collaboration with the day to day supervisor to consider the work undertaken by a staff member and team priorities, and to support the development of a PDP. The PDP supervisor's role is to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • work with the staff member to implement the performance and development process. • ensure work goals and development are appropriate and aligned with the school plan and priorities. • engage in regular conversations about their performance and development. • provide regular feedback to the staff member about their work performance. • support staff members in the identification of and participation in appropriate and work related development opportunities. • facilitate the performance and development process in a timely, supportive and constructive manner. • report on the completion of PDP and reviews as required by the principal.
Non-teaching staff	A non teaching staff member's role is to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • actively participate in the performance and development process. • set and work towards achieving their work goals and career goals. • participate in available development activities, including opportunities for on the job training and to learn from peers. • discuss with the PDP supervisor and/or day to day supervisor any concerns that arise during the performance and development cycle. For example, barriers or challenges, additional professional development requirements or changes to work activities that may impact the achievement of their goals. • reflect on their work performance and act on feedback received.

New, casual and temporary staff

Temporary and part time staff employed for the equivalent of one school term or above (10 weeks or longer) are required to participate in the performance and development process. The school principal will determine whether a Performance and Development Plan (PDP) is completed for any staff employed for less than one school term.

Temporary and new staff should begin their PDPs within six weeks of commencing in their role.

Change of duties

Where a staff member temporarily performs other duties for more than one school term, the staff member and PDP supervisor should develop a new PDP or amend the current PDP as appropriate.

Documentation

The original completed and signed PDP is retained by the staff member. A copy should also be retained locally and securely by the PDP Supervisor and stored centrally in a secure location at the school, accessible by the principal if required. A copy of the PDP should also be provided to a staff member's day to day supervisor (where different from the PDP supervisor).

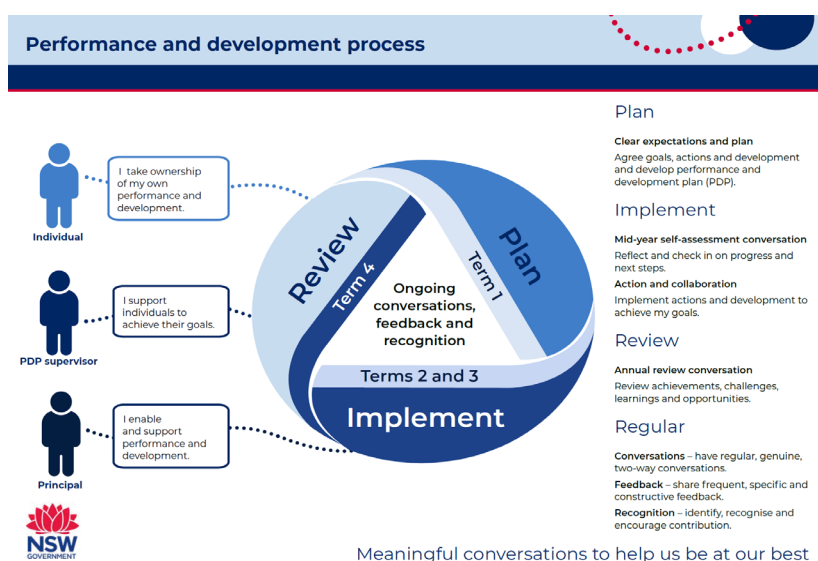

2.2 Performance and Development procedures

<https://education.nsw.gov.au/inside-the-department/human-resources/performance/non-teaching-staff-in-schools>

<https://education.nsw.gov.au/inside-the-department/human-resources/performance/non-teaching-staff-in-schools/performance-and-development-process>

There are three phases in the performance and development process:

- Plan for the year ahead - setting and clarifying expectations, identifying work and career goals, and preparing the PDP.
- Implement the actions and development to achieve goals identified in the PDP.
- Review work performance and development against the goals identified in the PDP.

The Performance and Development Plan template (non teaching staff in schools) is used to record details of a staff member's performance and development plan and document reviews.

Performance and Development Plan process: Plan, Implement and Review

The following procedures stated below are from the Department's Performance and development for non teaching staff in schools procedures

Performance and development process

This simple process has three phases: plan, implement and review. Each phase is supported by a key conversation with your performance and development plan (PDP) supervisor.

- Performance and development cycle
- Performance and development process resources
- Learn more

Performance and development cycle

1. Plan for the year ahead. A goal-setting conversation supports you and your PDP supervisor to set and clarify expectations, identify work and career goals and prepare your PDP.
2. Implement the actions and development needed to achieve goals identified in your PDP. A mid-year self-assessment conversation ensures goals are on track and together you consider whether changes to your PDP are needed.
3. Review work performance and development against the goals identified in your PDP. An annual review conversation focuses on the achievements, challenges, learnings and opportunities over the year.

Your PDP supervisor should also provide feedback to individual staff members throughout the year. Regular meaningful conversations are essential to support staff to be the best they can be, with a focus on school and student outcomes.

2.2.1 Phase 1 – Plan

The planning phase clarifies each staff member's understanding of the contribution their day to day work, behaviour and values make to the achievement of the school and team priorities. The staff member and the PDP supervisor collaborate to develop the staff member's PDP by discussing, identifying and recording:

- WHAT work and career goals to include.
- HOW these goals will be achieved – the strategies, support and learning and development to develop staff capabilities.

Both staff and PDP supervisors should prepare for planning meetings to ensure that maximum benefit is gained from the planning process. Where appropriate an initial planning meeting may occur within a team setting where staff are undertaking similar work and involved in the achievement of the same school priorities. Discussion should also include how the staff member can be supported in their current role and in their optional, career development goals. Options for how new skills and knowledge may be developed, through on-the-job training, job shadowing, mentoring and formal courses may be discussed. Although the meeting is conducted in a collaborative manner, it is facilitated by the PDP supervisor.

The staff member should then record the agreed goals, defined actions and outcomes, and timeframes on the Work Goals and Career Goals sections of the PDP template. The template must be agreed and signed by both parties. This ensures both parties have an accurate record of the goals and development options agreed during the discussion. The template includes the option for the principal to sign the PDP after it is completed eg the principal may elect to sign the PDP in situations where the PDP supervisor is different to the day to day supervisor.

The original signed copy should be retained by the staff member and a copy retained by the PDP supervisor. Where the PDP supervisor is different from the staff member's day to day supervisor, a copy of the PDP should be provided to the staff member's day to day supervisor. Also, the PDP supervisor and day to day supervisor should discuss how they will work collaboratively to support the staff member to implement the PDP. A copy of the completed PDP is also stored centrally in a secure location at the school and can be reviewed by the principal if required.

2.2.2 Phase 2 – Implement

During this phase action is taken to implement strategies identified in the PDP to progress towards, and achieve work and career goals, and to engage in learning and development opportunities to develop staff.

PDP supervisors may use the PDP to oversee work performance, provide regular and ongoing feedback to staff about how they are performing and for staff to reflect on their performance and development. Regular communication and feedback on work performance enables staff and PDP supervisors to identify and recognise good performance. By regularly keeping track of work performance, staff and PDP supervisors can identify any barriers or potential issues that impact the achievement of goals, and address these quickly. During the implement phase the PDP can be updated or amended as discussed and agreed to with the PDP supervisor.

Regular and ongoing feedback also involves discussing concerns about work performance when it arises. If work performance issues have been identified, these should be addressed at the time they occur. This may include the PDP supervisor clarifying expectations, discussing any factors affecting a staff member's work and working with the staff member to improve their work performance. Consideration should be given to how development opportunities may assist in improving work performance.

The management of unsatisfactory performance and placement of staff on a performance improvement program is a separate process managed by the Employee Performance and Conduct Directorate. Refer to managing unsatisfactory performance section for more information.

2.2.3 Phase 3 – Review

Reviews should take place through regular conversations between staff members and their supervisor throughout the performance and development cycle. The performance and development cycle has two formal reviews:

- mid year self assessment
- annual review.

Reviews should focus on reviewing the work tasks completed and goals achieved, providing positive and constructive feedback, identifying any factors that have assisted or impacted progress, options for maximising or addressing these, and the effect of support and development opportunities provided. The staff member and PDP supervisor can identify strengths and strategies to support continued achievement and development. The review may also consider other work the staff member has completed that was not identified in the PDP initially.

The mid year self assessment is undertaken during the implementing phase. The staff member undertakes a self-assessment reflecting on the progress made in achieving the identified goals in the PDP. They also identify any factors that have assisted or impacted progress, and options for maximising or addressing these. The staff member should record review notes in the Mid Year Self Assessment section of the PDP. The PDP supervisor should discuss progress made and any adjustments to the PDP with the staff member.

The annual review occurs at the end of the school year. The meeting is facilitated by the PDP supervisor and should be a collaborative discussion with the staff member. Positive performance should be recognised and acknowledged. Where the PDP supervisor does not manage the day to day work of a staff member, the PDP supervisor should seek feedback from the staff member's day to day supervisor about their work performance.

PDP supervisors must ensure they review performance:

- by considering WHAT the staff member has achieved and HOW they achieved it, including the contribution they have made to the schools and student outcomes, if applicable.
- against the agreed work goals, outcomes and measures and development objectives of the PDP and other achievements.
- across the life of the performance and development cycle and not just on the basis of a single and/or recent event.
- by considering the broader context as relevant.

The staff member records review notes in the Annual Review (Staff Member) section of the PDP. The PDP supervisor will discuss a staff member's overall performance over the year and document comments in the Annual Review (Supervisor) section of the PDP. The staff member has the option to record a response to the comments documented by the PDP supervisor.

Once the annual review has been finalised the PDP is signed by both parties and the original is retained by the staff member and a copy by the PDP supervisor. A copy should also be provided to the staff member's day to day supervisor, if different to the PDP supervisor.

PART 3: SDEHS NEW TEACHER INDUCTION AND SUPPORT PROGRAM

All casual and permanent teachers new to the school participate in the SDEHS New Teacher Induction and Support Program. These include: permanently appointed teachers on probation; teachers who have returned to teaching after a period of absence from the teaching service; and experienced newly appointed teachers. The New Teacher Induction and Support Program includes supervision and mentoring support in the faculty, assistance with the development of a Performance and Development Plan (PDP), and guidance for seeking or maintaining accreditation at Proficient Teacher level. There is also support for new teachers who are working towards assessment for the award of Teacher's Certificate. The program is coordinated by Deputy Principal (11-12) and each new teacher is supported by a supervisor and a mentor. All participants in the program including the new teacher are required to be aware of their roles and responsibilities. (Appendix 1)

The aim of the SDEHS New Teacher Induction and Support Program is to provide teachers new to the school with:

- a program that supplements the DoE Induction for New Employees
<https://education.nsw.gov.au/about-us/careers-at-education/beginning-teacher-support/induction-overview>
- support, by establishing a program of ongoing professional learning in collaboration with a supervisor and mentor
- an understanding of the professionalism and the legal responsibilities required of teachers
- knowledge of school, Department and NSW Educational Standards Authority (NESA) policies and procedures relevant to teaching practice, reporting and assessment, syllabus requirements, compliance training, student wellbeing, performance and development, and accreditation
- confidence and skills in the blended delivery of curriculum and management of student learning
- support for preparation for the award of Teacher's Certificate, where applicable
- support for preparation of the portfolio for seeking Proficient Teacher accreditation with NESA, where applicable.

The SDEHS New Teacher Induction and Support Program has a number of components. All teachers new to the school attend the Mandatory Induction Workshops and access mentoring and supervisor support. Other components of the program are accessed by the teacher if required.

The program's components are summarised in Table 1. DP (11–12) can provide further advice as required.

3.1 Induction Workshops

All teachers new to the school need to attend all Induction Workshops to assist in their induction and orientation. These workshops are essential for the new teacher to understand Department and school policies, processes and procedures, as well as the support available to both students and staff. This program, coordinated by DP (11-12), occurs during school core hours in Terms 1 and 2 and is advertised on the school intranet. It is the teacher’s responsibility to register and attend. A summary of the Induction Workshops content is provided at Appendix 2 which includes links to professional readings.

3.2 Mentoring and supervision support for teachers new to SDEHS

All teachers new to SDEHS, including experienced teachers and those employed casually or on temporary contracts, will be supported within their faculties by their supervisor (Faculty Head Teacher) and a teacher mentor usually from the same faculty. The mentor is allocated by the supervisor after discussion with the teacher and should be a highly competent teacher/colleague. Support includes information regarding: using the school database; communication with students and supervisors; curriculum support; reporting and assessment; web lessons; elearning; and performance and development. In addition, information is provided regarding school, Department and NESAs policies and processes in relation to curriculum, student wellbeing and day to day school processes.

The new teacher may choose to keep a reflection diary or journal to use as a basis for discussion during mentoring sessions. Appendix 3 gives sample proformas.

Support from the supervisor and mentor will:

- focus on the students as a point of discussion
- be supportive and meets the needs of the teacher
- encourage reflection on teaching and learning practice
- include teaching observations to encourage practice
- provide additional opportunities for team teaching including on study days

3.3 Induction, mentoring and supervision support for permanent beginning teachers on probation – Early Career Teacher (ECT)

This support is resourced by the Great Teaching, Inspired Learning initiative which allocates the funding equivalent of:

- In the teacher's first year
 - two hours per week release time for each newly appointed permanent beginning teacher on probation
 - one hour per week release time for an experienced teacher colleague
- In the teacher's second year
 - one hour per week release time.

At SDEHS, this enables newly appointed permanent beginning teachers on probation to be allocated one hour per week mentoring and supervision support during Term 1. This is used to raise issues with the mentor and/or supervisor. A timetable is negotiated so that supervisor and mentor can meet fortnightly with the teacher to discuss progress and any issues. During Terms 2 to 4 regular support and contact continues as required. The Permanent Beginning Teacher on Probation – Induction, Mentoring and Support Program summary (Appendix 4) indicates when meetings should occur. The new teacher may choose to keep a reflection diary or journal to use as a basis for discussion for mentoring sessions. Appendix 3 gives sample proformas

Support from the supervisor and mentor will:

- focus on the students as a point of discussion
- be supportive and meet the needs of the teacher
- include reflection on teaching and learning practice
- include a planned schedule of observations and meeting times to encourage best practice, as well as time for discussion and reflection of classroom observations
- provide opportunities for team teaching including on study days.

3.3.1 Beginning Teacher Support Funding and New Teacher Project

Each newly appointed probationary teacher (ECT) must develop a New Teacher Funding Proposal with their supervisor in order to access Beginning Teacher Support Funding. The proposal gives the teacher the opportunity to focus on any special projects that will contribute to their teaching practice during their probationary period. After discussing their project with their supervisor and relevant teacher, the probationary teacher needs to complete the form (Appendix 5) in consultation with DP (11–12) to access the funds.

The additional funding should be used to support the ECT's professional learning to build teacher capacity and quality. The following activities should be considered for inclusion in the teacher's proposal.

- observation of other teachers' lessons
- engagement in professional discussion and personal reflection with mentor and supervisor
- assessment and evaluation of student work
- preparation of lessons and resources
- compiling evidence to achieve and maintain mandatory accreditation at the key stage of Proficient Teacher with NESA
- team teaching
- participation in structured feedback meetings
- application for a Teacher's Certificate.

3.3.1.1 Accountability – Beginning Teacher Support Funding

Permanent beginning teachers on probation appointed to SDEHS are required to have all aspects of their induction, mentoring and supervision support signed off by their supervisor/mentor or DP (11–12) as a way of assessing the teacher's participation in the program and suitability for the award of the Teacher's Certificate.

A summary of the program for permanent beginning teachers on probation (Appendix 4) includes provision for sign off by both the teacher and the supervisor to validate successful participation in the program.

This is also an accountability measure in evaluating the use of Beginning Teacher Support Funding.

3.3.2 Strong Start, Great Teachers professional learning modules

Strong Start, Great Teachers – an induction guide for beginning teachers and schools is a resource designed to support beginning teachers and inform the development of local school-based induction processes.

During their first year of teaching, newly appointed permanent beginning teachers on probation need to complete all four online learning modules, Phases 1–4, referred to in the Induction and Support Program (Appendix 1).

ECTs are also encouraged to participate in this professional learning. The induction guide and modules can be accessed at <https://education.nsw.gov.au/teaching-and-learning/professional-learning/teacher-quality-and-accreditation/strong-start-great-teachers#Learn4>

- Phase 1 provides practical guides, advice, suggestions and planners to support beginning teachers and schools during the periods of initial contact, orientation and the first weeks and first terms of teaching
- Phase 2 introduces the process of reflecting on practice through the lens of the teaching standards and includes reflective practices, managing the classroom, lesson planning and assessment
- Phase 3 continues the process of reflecting on teaching through the standards and explores the areas of questioning and feedback
- Phase 4 continues the process of reflecting on teaching through the standards and explores the areas of differentiating learning and peer and self-assessment for students.

3.4 Performance and Development support for new teachers

All teachers must complete a Performance and Development Plan (PDP) which includes a schedule of classroom observations. These processes are detailed in Part 1 of this document.

3.5 Support for new teachers seeking or maintaining accreditation with NESA

Support for all teachers in relation to accreditation with NESA is detailed in Part 3 of this document.

Teacher Relief Day Schedule (See DELTA)

Submissions are now requested for 20__ proposals.

The purpose is to provide opportunities for new teachers at the school to focus on any special needs or goals which contribute to their teaching practice during the probationary period. Days can be used to assist in the new teachers' induction, professional development and achievement of accreditation at the level of Proficient Teacher. Not all permanent teachers on probation are new to teaching, and principals will have flexibility to design a program of support which takes into account each permanent on probation teacher's specific strengths, needs and context.

PART 4: ACCREDITATION WITH NESAS

All NSW government school teachers must be accredited at Proficient Teacher level. Some teachers – specifically those who were teaching in NSW government schools before October 2004 have not had an absence of more than 5 years since and have completed satisfactory PDPs – are regarded as teachers deemed Proficient, not requiring accreditation at this time.

All other teachers must seek accreditation at Proficient Teacher level.

In NSW, the NSW Educational Standards Authority (NESAS) oversees the process of accreditation for all teachers, in consultation with Teacher Accreditation Authorities (TAA). For all schools, the Principal is the TAA.

4.1 The Australian Professional Standards for Teachers

The Australian Professional Standards for Teachers (the Standards) describe the key elements of quality teaching that improve educational outcomes for students.

A full description can be found at NESAS site and at The Australian Professional Standards for Teachers. They articulate what teachers Australia-wide are expected to know and be able to do at each of the four career stages:

- Graduate Teacher
- Proficient Teacher – mandatory for all NSW government school teachers
- Highly Accomplished Teacher
- Lead Teacher

Teachers applying for accreditation as Proficient Teacher, Highly Accomplished Teacher or Lead Teacher need to provide evidence to NESAS which demonstrates that they meet the Standards at the level for which they are applying. SDEHS supports teachers in gaining and maintaining mandatory accreditation at Proficient Teacher level, which is required for all teachers in NSW government schools and employed by the Department.

The Principal, principal's delegate (DP (11–12)), Head Teacher Administration (Single Course with Events and Accreditation Support) with supervisor and teacher seeking accreditation at Proficient Teacher level have roles and responsibilities in the preparation, processing and submission to NESAS of the accreditation report and annotated evidence portfolio. These are outlined in the table at Appendix 1 which is taken directly from the Accreditation at Proficient Teacher Procedures.

4.2 NESAS process for teachers maintaining accreditation at Proficient Teacher level

It is a mandatory requirement for accredited teachers to maintain their accreditation with NESAS. See Maintaining your accreditation.

To maintain accreditation at Proficient Teacher level, teachers must:

- hold a current NSW Working With Children Check (WWCC) Clearance
- pay their annual accreditation fee to NESAS
- continue to demonstrate their practice against the Standards
- complete a mandatory minimum 100 hours of continuing professional development over the maintenance period

4.2.1 Maintenance of Accreditation Period

See <https://educationstandards.nsw.edu.au/wps/portal/nesa/teacher-accreditation/meeting-requirements/maintaining-accreditation>

- Permanent accredited teachers employed fulltime have five years to complete each maintenance of accreditation phase.
- Casual, temporary and part-time teachers who are accredited at Proficient Teacher have seven years to complete each maintenance of accreditation phase.

In cases where a break in teaching service may lead to an accredited teacher being unable to meet the requirements for maintenance of accreditation, the teacher may apply for a leave of absence from maintenance of accreditation through NESA.

4.2.2 Professional development

See <https://educationstandards.nsw.edu.au/wps/portal/nesa/teacher-accreditation/resources/policies-procedures/maintenance-of-teacher-accreditation-policy>

The required 100 hours of professional development comprises:

- a minimum of 50 hours of NESA Registered professional development, and
- the balance in Teacher Identified professional development, which may include courses and programs that are not registered through NESA as well as conferences, workshops, professional reading, observations, research and delivery of professional learning and development.

Note in 2022-23 there were reforms to Teacher Accreditation including the logging of Elective PD on the NESA eTAMS site. For more information on the reforms go to:

<https://educationstandards.nsw.edu.au/wps/portal/nesa/about/initiatives/teacher-accreditation-reform>

4.2.3 Preparing and submitting the NESA Maintenance of Accreditation Report

From 17 July 2023, teachers no longer need to log Elective PD in their NESA online account (eTAMS). Teachers will only need to keep a personal log of Elective PD.

This Elective PD personal log \(PDF, 4 pages, 2.17MB\) captures essential information only, including:

- date PD was completed
- duration of each PD activity
- the Standard Descriptor(s) your activity addresses from the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers
- whether the activity was a Professional commitment activity (required by HALTs).

Teachers will need to retain this log for up to 12 months after their maintenance period ends, as part of our quality assurance processes. Teachers will no longer need to write a reflection for each PD activity. Significantly, while Elective PD must continue to address the Standard Descriptors, teachers will no longer need to write a reflection for each activity. Teachers will still need to complete 100 hours of PD including the minimum NESA Accredited PD requirements.

4.3 NESA process for teachers seeking accreditation at Proficient Teacher level

In 2022-23 there were reforms to the Teacher Accreditation requirements. See <https://educationstandards.nsw.edu.au/wps/portal/nesa/about/initiatives/teacher-accreditation-reform> and access the NSW Teacher Accreditation Manual 2022.

When a teacher is confident that their practice meets all of the Standard Descriptors for Proficient Teacher they should initiate a discussion with their supervisor about their readiness to finalise their accreditation.

Teachers employed on a casual basis who work in a number of schools/services should approach a school/service or principal/Supervisor with whom they have an established relationship to finalise their accreditation at Proficient Teacher.

If a principal/service director and/or TAA cannot confidently make a judgement about a casual teacher's practice they may decline a request from a casual teacher to make the accreditation decision.

Teachers must initiate a discussion about finalising their accreditation no later than three months before the end of their maximum accreditation timeframe (see Section 5 of the Policy).

To finalise accreditation, teachers must submit the following evidence¹⁸ in their NESA online account (eTAMS):

- five to eight items of annotated documentary evidence of the teacher's practice (see Section 4.4.2); and
- an observation report of the teacher's practice completed by their Accreditation Supervisor (see Section 4.4.3).

Collectively, a teacher's evidence must:

- address at least one Proficient Teacher Standard Descriptor from each of the seven Standards
- demonstrate their engagement in a range of professional activities.

4.3.1 Determining readiness to finalise accreditation

When the teacher and Accreditation Supervisor agree that the teacher's practice meets the Standards for Proficient Teacher, the Accreditation Supervisor must begin the process of finalising the teacher's accreditation (see Sections 4.4.3 and 4.4.4).

If the Accreditation Supervisor determines that a teacher's practice does not meet all of the Standard Descriptors, the Accreditation Supervisor must notify the principal/service director and the teacher in writing within 28 days of the teacher initiating a discussion about finalising accreditation. The Accreditation Supervisor's notification to the principal/service director and teacher must:

- identify which Standard Descriptors the teacher has yet to demonstrate; and
- include appropriate strategies and support they will provide to assist the teacher in meeting the identified Standard Descriptors.

The principal/service director, in consultation with the Accreditation Supervisor, must provide feedback and support to the teacher in relation to meeting the Standards, in line with the employer's internal procedures (see Section 14.7).

4.3.2 Documentary evidence of practice

To finalise accreditation teachers must select five to eight items of documentary evidence of practice they have collected during their accreditation period to annotate and submit in their NESA online account (eTAMS). Accreditation Supervisors are responsible for assisting teachers to select and annotate evidence, in line with Section 14.2.

Each of the five to eight selected items of documentary evidence must:

- illustrate practice at the Proficient Teacher level
- address two to four Standard Descriptors; and
- be annotated by the teacher, in their NESA online account (eTAMS), to explain how the evidence demonstrates the identified Standard Descriptors.

Collectively, a teacher's submitted evidence must:

- address at least one Proficient Teacher Standard Descriptor from each of the seven Standards; and
- demonstrate their engagement in a range of professional activities.

Teachers who collect evidence from their employment in a number of schools/services must have their evidence authenticated by a colleague accredited at Proficient Teacher or above to confirm that the evidence is the teacher's own work.

Documentary evidence of practice for teachers who have been re-accredited at Provisional (see Section 12) must include significant work from the re-accreditation period.

4.3.3 Observation report

To finalise accreditation teachers must have their practice observed by their Accreditation Supervisor. Accreditation Supervisors must provide teachers with feedback and a report on their observation of the teacher's practice within 14 days of the observation.

The Accreditation Supervisor's observation report must include:

- a record of the discussion between the teacher and the Accreditation Supervisor prior to the observation, including details of the negotiated and agreed lesson/learning experience to be observed
- the two to four Standard Descriptors for Proficient Teacher that the teacher and Accreditation Supervisor have agreed will be the focus of the observation
- a written account by the Accreditation Supervisor on the observation of the teacher's practice, referencing the agreed Standard Descriptors
- the teacher's reflection on their teaching practice; and
- written feedback to the teacher from the Accreditation Supervisor following the observation.

4.3.4 Declaration

When the teacher has submitted their annotated documentary evidence and their Accreditation Supervisor's observation report, the teacher's Accreditation Supervisor must login to their own NESA online account (eTAMS) and, within 28 days:

- review the documentary evidence and, if any Standards have not been met, provide feedback to and request revisions from the teacher; and
- declare whether the teacher has demonstrated that their practice meets each of the Standards.

The Accreditation Supervisor's declaration is a holistic judgement based on:

- the teacher's annotated documentary evidence of practice
- their observation and knowledge of the teacher's practice
- professional conversations with the teacher throughout the accreditation period; and
- any feedback and support provided to the teacher which may include an improvement plan or other intervention, and the outcome of such intervention, where applicable.

If the Accreditation Supervisor declares that the teacher's practice does not meet the Standards, the Accreditation Supervisor must provide evaluative comments when making the declaration outlining the issues, which Standard Descriptors have not been demonstrated, the feedback and support offered to the teacher and the teacher's response to the feedback and support.

4.4 SDEHS process for supporting teachers seeking accreditation at Proficient Teacher level

SDEHS has a five step process for supporting teachers seeking accreditation at Proficient Teacher level. Teachers need to demonstrate that they are meeting all of the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers at Proficient Teacher level. They do this by preparing an annotated portfolio of evidence, and submitting it along with an accreditation report written by their supervisor.

Teachers seeking accreditation at Proficient Teacher level should refer to the checklist at Appendix 1. They are supported and guided through the application process by their supervisor, the HT (Single Course with Events and Accreditation Support) and the DP (11–12). A summary of the process is at Appendix 2.

4.4.1 Step 1 – Pre-application conversation and background reading

The teacher seeking accreditation at Proficient Teacher level has a pre-application conversation with DP (11–12) and HT Admin (Single Course with Events and Accreditation Support). The teacher also needs to print out these documents which will be referred to constantly throughout the accreditation process:

1. Department Accreditation at Proficient Teacher Procedures.pdf (Accreditation Procedures)
2. NESA The Australian Professional Standards for Teachers.pdf (the Standards)
3. NESA Proficient Teacher Evidence Guide.pdf (the Evidence Guide)
4. NESA Applying for proficient Teacher Accreditation
5. NESA Teacher Accreditation Manual.pdf (the Policy)

At the first meeting with the DP (11–12) and HT Admin (Single Course with Events and Accreditation Support) checks that the teacher understands and meets the criteria as outlined on the NESA website at Applying for Proficient Teacher accreditation and Applying for Proficient Teacher Accreditation Procedure \(November 2022\) and the NSW Teacher Accreditation Manual \(2022\). The teacher needs to read this information before attending the preliminary meeting with DP (11–12) and HT Admin (Single Course with Events and Accreditation Support).

At the meeting the teacher will be provided with some background reading, support materials, sample evidence folios and advice on using the Evidence Collection and Mapping Tool (Appendix 3) so that they can start to think about the types of evidence that must be linked to the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers.

4.4.2 Step 2 – Collection of evidence

Once a teacher has a range of teaching experience, they begin collecting documentary evidence as samples of their work to demonstrate their teaching practice at Proficient Teacher.

The documentary evidence collected by teachers comprises of material normally used in preparing for and delivering teaching programs and assessing and recording student achievement of learning outcomes.

Documentary evidence collected is a sample of a teacher's work, it is not a comprehensive portfolio. A teacher's practice must meet all the Standard Descriptors before they can be accredited at Proficient Teacher, however teachers are not required to collect or annotate evidence for each of the 37 Standard Descriptors. Each item of evidence should only address two to four Standard Descriptors.

To finalise accreditation teachers must select five to eight items of documentary evidence they have collected during their accreditation period to annotate and submit to their supervisor in their NESA online account. Teachers should consult their supervisor when selecting items to annotate and submit. Teachers' selection of annotated documentary evidence must demonstrate their engagement in a range of professional activities.

Teachers need to consider the following when putting together their package of evidence:

- Think quality, not quantity
- The evidence package should be a collection of samples of the teacher's work: documents normally used in preparing for and delivering teaching programs and in assessing and recording student achievement of learning outcomes
- The evidence package should be made up of between five and eight items of documentary evidence.
- Annotations (entered on NESA teacher's account) should tell the story of the document in terms that are specific to the Standard Descriptors, so that the supervisor and the TAA can easily understand the teacher's view on the link between the documentary evidence and the Standards
- Avoid lengthy documents and photographs
- Any information which would allow a student or colleague to be identified must be removed from the teacher's submitted evidence.

The types of evidence which could be considered include:

- Annotated excerpts from plans, lesson materials and programs developed by the teacher
- Analysis and reflection on study day lessons
- Annotated student work samples (bearing in mind issues of confidentiality)
- Reports to parents and community members (bearing in mind issues of confidentiality and sensitivity to student background)
- Written feedback of teaching observations
- Notes from team teaching or collaborative planning opportunities
- Documented behaviour management strategies
- Minutes from meetings, or notes from supervising teacher, regarding teaching observed, lesson planning and student achievement
- Written reflection and feedback from professional learning opportunities highlighting the effect this has had on the teacher's practice and on student learning
- Record of teaching and learning at web lessons, Field Service Visits, Study Days, phone lessons, excursions, school camp, Student Leadership Group meetings
- Student feedback sheets, examples of adjusted work.

Teachers who collect documentary evidence from a number of schools need to have their work authenticated by a colleague accredited at Proficient Teacher or above. This will be applicable for temporary and casual teachers who will have their evidence authenticated at the school in which the document was used. Authentication can be completed in the NESA online account. Authentication is a process where a colleague confirms the evidence as the teacher's own work, it is not a verification process of the evidence being representative of the Standards. A separate verification process will be undertaken by a supervisor once the teacher submits all their documentary evidence when finalising their accreditation.

Mapping the Evidence

The evidence needs to be mapped using the Evidence Collection and Mapping Tool (Appendix 3), demonstrating that all of the standards at Proficient Teacher level have been covered.

When the teacher has decided what evidence they will include in their evidence package and has mapped the evidence, the teacher arranges a meeting with DP (11–12) or HT Admin (Single Course with Events & Accreditation Support). Together they discuss the appropriateness of the selected evidence. While a teacher's practice must meet all of the Standard Descriptors before they can be accredited at Proficient Teacher, teachers are not required to submit evidence that addresses every Standard Descriptor to finalise their accreditation. Nor are teachers required to generate documentary evidence for every Standard Descriptor in preparation for finalising accreditation, or to annotate documentary evidence prior to finalising accreditation. Evidence should be drawn from a teacher's daily practice as this develops over time.

4.4.3 Step 3 – Annotating the evidence and preparing the evidence portfolio

Annotations are a significant feature of the evidence and demonstrate the achievement of the standards at Proficient Teacher level. Each piece of evidence must be annotated. A succinct and thoughtful annotation of how each document selected demonstrates the teacher's achievement of the identified Standard Descriptors is a significant feature of evidence. Each piece of documentary evidence that a teacher submits must be annotated by the teacher within their NESA online account to demonstrate achievement of two to four Standard Descriptors at Proficient Teacher. A sample is provided at Appendix 6. Further advice on the selection and annotation of evidence is available on the NESA website.

Each selected item of documentary evidence must:

- illustrate practice at the Proficient Teacher level
- address two to four Standard Descriptors
- be annotated by the teacher, in their NESA online account, to explain how it demonstrates the teacher's achievement of the identified Standard Descriptors

Annotations should describe why the selected activities and resources were used and that learning has occurred.

4.4.4 Step 4 – Observing the teacher’s practice

To finalise accreditation teachers must have their practice observed by their supervisor. Supervisors are required to provide teachers with feedback and a report on their observation of the teacher’s practice within 14 calendar days of the observation. Their supervisor must have completed the observation submitted by the teacher to finalise their accreditation.

The supervisor’s report on their observation of the teacher’s practice must reflect two to four Standard Descriptors for Proficient Teacher and must include:

- a record of the discussion between the teacher and the supervisor prior to the observation, including details of the negotiated and agreed lesson/teaching and learning experience to be observed
- the two to four Standard Descriptors the teacher and supervisor have agreed will be the focus of the observation
- a written account by the supervisor on the observation of the teacher’s practice, referencing the agreed Standard Descriptors
- the teacher’s reflection on their teaching practice
- written feedback to the teacher from the supervisor following the observation.

Supervisors may use or refer to NESAs’s template observation report but are not required to. The teacher must not annotate the supervisor’s observation report.

The teacher must submit the observation report through their NESAs online account when they are finalising their accreditation, in addition to their selection of five to eight items of annotated documentary evidence.

4.4.5 Step 5 – Finalising and submitting evidence

No later than three months before the end of their maximum accreditation timeframe and after ongoing consultation with their supervisor, the teacher submits the annotated evidence which best demonstrates their teaching at Proficient Teacher along with the report on an observation of their practice completed by their supervisor. The teacher must not annotate the observation report.

The focus for submitted evidence is on quality not quantity.

Once all evidence is submitted through the teacher’s online NESAs account, the supervisor will be notified and have 21 calendar days to write a Proficient Teacher Accreditation Report.

4.5 Teachers seeking accreditation at Highly Accomplished Teacher or Lead Teacher

The process of accreditation of teachers at the final two career stages of Highly Accomplished Teacher (HAT) and Lead Teacher (LT) is outlined in the Teacher Accreditation Act 2004.

Applicants must develop and submit a comprehensive formal submission for assessment and approval by NESAs. The submission must demonstrate how the teacher meets the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers at Highly Accomplished Teacher or Lead Teacher level. Three sources of evidence are required – documentary, referee reports and external observation. There is a submission fee.

Information regarding accreditation at these higher levels can be found on the NESAs website <https://educationstandards.nsw.edu.au/wps/portal/nesa/teacher-accreditation/apply/higher-levels>

4.5.1 NESA processes for teachers seeking accreditation at Highly Accomplished Teacher or Lead Teacher level

The Accreditation at Highly Accomplished Teacher and Lead Teacher Procedures describe the process for teachers employed by the Department to voluntarily seek accreditation at those higher career stages. The following information is a summary of the key components in the process and is taken directly from the Accreditation Procedures. Teachers considering applying for accreditation at one of the higher levels need to read the procedures in their entirety, and other associated policies referenced in the procedures, before discussing with DP (11–12) their intention to proceed.

Seeking accreditation at the higher career stages is an individual voluntary process which is organised and managed by the teacher. Teachers seeking accreditation at the higher career stages are responsible for planning and managing their online submission and working with referees and an external observer. There is a maximum three years timeframe for a teacher to complete a submission. An extension of time is available from NESA to accommodate periods of leave if required.

4.5.2 SDEHS process for teachers seeking accreditation at Highly Accomplished Teacher or Lead Teacher level

Teachers considering voluntarily seeking accreditation at a higher level career stage should refer to the NESA site for information on Applying for Highly Accomplished and Lead Teacher (HALT) Accreditation and also participate in the DE HALT Network Mentoring Program. At SDEHS the Co-Principal and DP(11-12) lead this initiative. This involves attending Mentoring sessions twice a term, annotating evidence, presenting evidence to other network members and giving and receiving constructive collegial feedback.

- for initial consultation with evidence mapping matrix. Each item of evidence should only address two to four Standard Descriptors.

STEP 3

Annotating the evidence

Each selected item of documentary evidence must:

- illustrate practice at the Proficient Teacher level
- address two to four Standard Descriptors
- be annotated by the teacher, in their NESA online account, to explain how it demonstrates the teacher's achievement of the identified Standard Descriptors
- Be sure to check for spelling, grammar errors and consistency across portfolio, especially screen captures.

STEP 4

Observing the teacher's practice

- To finalise accreditation teachers must have their practice observed by their supervisor.
- A teacher's collection of evidence with annotations made in the online NESA account must all be submitted to finalise accreditation, with a report on an observation of their practice completed by their supervisor, must address at least one Proficient Teacher Standard Descriptor from each of the seven Standards.

STEP 5

Finalising and submitting

- No later than three months before the end of their maximum accreditation timeframe and after ongoing consultation with their supervisor, the teacher submits the evidence and adds annotations online which best demonstrates their teaching at Proficient Teacher along with the report on an observation of their practice completed by their supervisor.
- Once evidence is submitted, the supervisor will be notified and have 21 calendar days to write a Proficient Teacher Accreditation Report.

Part 4 Appendix 4: Style and content of annotations

This Appendix offers advice on the style and content of annotations to be written by the teacher seeking accreditation at Proficient Teacher level and is taken from the NESA website.

1. Annotating lesson plans and programs

When analysing and reflecting on teaching and learning, teachers could ask themselves the following questions:

- What worked well in terms of the students' learning? Why did it work well?
- What did not work as well as expected?
- What would I do differently given the opportunity to repeat the activity?
- What would I do next in the light of what the student responses have told me about their understandings, difficulties and misconceptions?

2. Annotating student work samples

Analysing samples of student work provides an opportunity to improve teachers' knowledge of their students as well as the effectiveness of the teaching/learning cycle. It also provides insight into the complexity and depth of the student learning which has occurred. Be sure to include where the sample fits in the sequence of learning experiences, and the nature of work eg set, group task and test. The annotations and notes the teacher provides for the work samples submitted should answer these questions:

- What does the work sample demonstrate about the student's progress towards the established learning goals (including literacy and support needs)?
- What does the work sample tell you about the effectiveness of the teaching and learning which you planned and delivered?
- Where would you go next with this student?
- How would you communicate feedback to students or supervisors/parents/caregivers?

The Evidence Guide in the Accreditation Manual on the NESA website provides useful descriptors of competent teaching that can be used in the annotations. Use the Evidence Guide when you are providing evidence of your achievement of the standards.

Annotations on evidence should briefly:	What does this look like?
Note the Standard descriptor/s it reflects	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Insert notation in a consistent manner after each annotation (2.2.2, 3.4.2, 4.3.2).
Explain how the document demonstrates these standards	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Simply writing the number of the Standard descriptor is not sufficient. The annotation should reflect the language of the Standard descriptor rather than quote it verbatim, and make an explicit link with the teacher's practice. • Make explicit links between teaching practice and the Standards descriptors) at Teacher. • Provide contextual and clarifying information explicitly linking the-supporting evidence to the standard descriptors.
Explain why the document was chosen and how it was used	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Put each piece of supporting evidence in the context of the-teacher's work in the school. • Include explanatory notes written on the supporting evidence to make the link between the teacher's practice and the standard descriptor explicit.
Indicate the impact or result of the work	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Describe how the teacher has used their professional knowledge in planning for effective learning. • Indicate insight into progress toward student learning goals.

Below are examples of documentary evidence that could be submitted by teachers as well as examples of the annotations that are required for that evidence.

The examples are excerpts from two units of work. They do not comprise the entire evidence to be submitted (there are no student work samples, for example). Rather, they give an indication of how the evidence can be annotated and how achievement of the standards can be demonstrated.

This section also includes some advice with regard to the style and content of annotations to be written by the Teacher Seeking Accreditation at Proficient Teacher.

This work sample demonstrates how the student was able to build on prior knowledge of this topic and apply the content being taught.	This student's work on the assessment task was satisfactory.

Evidence 1: Student Response Sheet

Response sheets include feedback sent to students, attached to the relevant unit of work. This response sheet was for a Stage 6 student who submitted revision work in preparation for the Preliminary Examinations. The student had vision and hearing impairments, which required all learning material to be adjusted in order to meet their specific abilities.

Part 4 Appendix 7: Fact sheet: Performance and Development Framework – Regular casual teachers

Fact sheet: Performance and Development Framework – Regular casual teachers

Regular and non-regular casual teachers

Regular casual teachers have a sufficient relationship with a predominant school and a regularity of casual work that allows for meaningful performance and development processes to be undertaken. Regular casual teachers are expected to complete a Performance and Development Plan (PDP).

There are a large number of casual teachers who work infrequently and at a variety of schools. The department does not require non-regular casual teachers to complete a PDP.

What is a regular casual teacher?

Regular casual teachers are those who will be working on average one day per week or more on a regular basis for no less than 42 days across the school year. Principals will need to identify and anticipate those casual teachers they are likely to engage on a regular basis.

Example 1

Alex is working 3 weeks full time on a casual basis and then will be engaged on one day assignments throughout the remainder of the year. Alex would be classified as a regular casual teacher.

Example 2

Lee is working 2 days a week on a casual basis for 15 weeks and will then be engaged for a 3 week full time casual role during another term. Lee would be classified as a regular casual teacher.

Professional development for casual teachers

Principals are to provide access to school development days and other development activities for casual teachers who work in their school on a regular basis. Casual teachers will not necessarily be paid for voluntary attendance at professional development as this is at the discretion of the principal.

What are the responsibilities of a regular casual teacher?

Every casual teacher who teaches on a regular basis will be expected to develop a PDP.

The teacher and the supervisor will collaborate on the development of goals and activities associated with the PDP and will have professional discussions about the teacher's performance and classroom observation of teaching practice as per the Framework.

What are the responsibilities of a principal?

Principals are expected to ensure that casual teachers who are working on a regular basis within their school are given access to a supervisor with whom they can work with to plan, implement, and review their PDP.

How does the performance and development framework impact teacher accreditation?

All teachers, including casuals, will need to continue to be aware of and meet the mandatory accreditation requirements applicable for their role. Completion of a PDP is not a mandatory accreditation requirement.
